

I believe that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. I used to get several calls every night and on weekends from telemarketers, but since I signed up for the "No Call" list, I am not getting any. I do not think that telemarketers have the right to disturb me at home. The phone is my "personal" phone and I do not wish to have calls asking me to purchase things, donate to things, or answer surveys. If I want to purchase something I will do so when and where I want, and I certainly would never purchase anything from a telemarketer. I do not wish my privacy to be invaded by telemarketers and I sincerely hope that you do not dilute this most important law.
